PUBLIUS CORNELIUS
SCIPIO NASICA SERAPIO
d. c. 132 BC

Consul 138 BC and Pontifex maximus was a son of Afranius major's daughter; despite the family connections he led the mob of senators that murdered TIBERIUS GRACCHUS. He left Rome to escape popular hatred. A descendant of NASICA SERAPIO was adopted by Q. CAECILIUS METELLOS PIUS and named QUINTUS CAECILIUS METELLUS PIUS SCIPIO d. 46 BC. He command of the Roman forces in the Mithridatic War. The jealousy of Marius was aroused by this and he rebelled bringing on a civil war. After varying success the forces under Sulla triumphed and he then went to Asia where he defeated Mithridates. Later he was appointed dictator and did everything in his power, by law and otherwise, to exterminate the party that favored Marius.
